Merry Christmas and Happy New Year Everyone!!!!!!

Painting the layers of the ocean

Math: We are currently working with Unit 5. This unit is about exploring different shapes. We'll be classifying polygons, drawing and naming line segments. We'll be creating a shape museum in the classroom.

Theme: We are working with the ocean. The students are having a great time learning about all of the living things in the ocean. They had a wonderful time painting a mural with the layers of the ocean. Now they are researching the animals that live in each layer.

Reading: Guided reading was a success. All of the groups responded well to the questions. They used different reading strategies to understand and retell the events of the book.

Writing: Continues to be creative and fun. All of the students have published stories, which makes me very happy. I'll keep encouraging them to write as much as possible.

Grammar: We continue working with adjectives. Our spelling quizzes on Friday's are better and better each week. Students are writing using complete sentences and the correct punctuation.

I wish you all a wonderful Christmas.
